SHIPPING & WATERFRONT NEWS

LONDON BOARD OF TRADE SHIPPING RULES HERE

Suggestions by the London Board of Trade as to plans to follow in shipping goods by water to neutral and warring countries have been forwarded to the local Chamber of Commerce by the English consul here, and will be read to the chamber members at the next regular meeting.

Secretary Raymond C. Brown says that he has not found a great deal of call for rules of this kind, an announcement having been sent out by the chamber a few weeks ago that the body would like to get in touch with any local dealers whose trade has been bothered by the war and so far resulting in an answer from but one firm.

Shipments of goods to neutral ports of Europe, or to Russian ports in the Baltic, or shipments by vessels calling at these ports should be made out to a named consignee or to a bank of high standing.

Goods shipped to British, French or Italian ports, or to Russian ports not in the Baltic do not need such consignments as stated above, so long as the bill of lading is clear.

For neutral countries outside of Europe the rule holds the same as for neutral countries in Europe, save that a statement should be made that the destination is not near the possession of an enemy. A bill of lading should be sent with goods.

SAY MRS. CATTON WENT TO COAST JUST TO GET WELL LOVED PET CAT

Going to San Francisco with a double object, celebrating the anniversary of her wedding trip and also to get her pet cat and bring it back to Honolulu, Mrs. F. J. Catton, a well-known young matron of this city, arrived in the position city on the Matson's last trip to the coast, according to the San Francisco papers.

Mr. Catton designed the advertising posters for the 1916 Mid-Pacific Carnival. He remained here because of business.

The Chronicle says Mrs. Catton is celebrating the anniversary of her wedding trip. The Bulletin states that her chief object in making the trip from this city to the mainland is to get her pet cat and bring it back to Honolulu.

Next mail for the mainland goes in the Matsonia, sailing at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning for San Francisco.

Late this afternoon the U. S. army transport Thomas is due to arrive from San Francisco, en route to the Philippines. She expects to sail Monday afternoon.

The Canadian-Australasian steamer Niagara took 62 bags of mail from this port for the states, Canada and Europe when she sailed this morning at 5:30 for Vancouver.

Receiving a general overhauling, cleaning and painting, the lighthouse tender Columbine is at the inter-island drydock, and will be in service again by Sunday or Monday.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the Matson steamer Matsonia, Capt. Francis M. Edwards, is sailing for Hilo. She will return Monday morning, and sail Wednesday morning at 10 for San Francisco.

TRAVEL TO HAWAII WILL BENEFIT PORTLAND

Travel between San Francisco and Honolulu on the Great Northern this winter will indirectly help Portland's tourist business, by adding another trade territory to that city, according to an interview printed in the Portland Journal of October 20, with Cal E. Stone, general traffic manager of Great Northern Pacific Steamship Company.

The steamship line, being one with the Spokane, Portland-Seattle railway and its parent companies, will naturally encourage all the travel possible from the East to Honolulu via the Northwest, said Mr. Stone.

Mr. Stone made this statement when he was told of the opposition that exists in Portland to the idea of taking one of the twin ships of the Flavel-San Francisco run for the winter.

One hundred Los Angeles and Southern California residents will make the voyage here from San Pedro on the Great Northern's first trip to this port on the "Isles of Peace Route" if the excursion project now being advertised extensively by the Los Angeles Examiner, one of the leading papers of the Pacific coast, is successfully concluded.

Radio advice to the quartermaster department this morning stated that the U. S. army transport Thomas would arrive between 3 and 4 o'clock this afternoon from San Francisco. She will dock at Pier 8.

The transport is bringing 75 passengers for Honolulu. It is not believed she has any mail for this port as the Nippon Maru, due off port at daylight tomorrow, is bringing three days' mail, and is faster boat than the transport.

Added glamor was lent to the coronation celebration events of Japanese on the west end of Maui by the presence of the Japanese cruiser Asama outside the three-mile limit off Lahaina Wednesday afternoon.
